About This Workshop

If you feel stressed out with little time to take care of yourself due to your workload, then this workshop is just for you. If you find yourself carving out time for everyone else's needs except yours, then this course was definitely made for you.

We'll start by diving into how teachers can practice self-care when they're always exhausted. Then we'll discuss what self-care looks like for different teachers. Next we'll identify the steps to creating a self-care plan. From there we'll discover how to come up with the right self-care plan for you and then delve into what to do if you face challenges with the implementation element. Finally, we'll wrap up the workshop by focusing and talking about how to ensure that your plan is a success.
